Take charge of your day!

Everyone has those days that challenge personal equilibrium. They’re the days when it seems like everyone around us is breathing dragon fire. The boss is yelling, the kids are screaming, a friend is having a hormonal crisis, and we are standing in the middle of them all.

We try to remain detached, reminding ourselves that their problems are not ours. We physically remove ourselves from the source of discontent only to wind up the captive audience of right vs left, fear-mongering, news telecast.

By the time the sun has set, so has our ability to withstand the blitz of negativity. We’re agitated, nervous, cranky, and generally unhappy. It isn’t always easy, but we can protect ourselves from the energies we don’t want to be influenced by.

Start your day by making a point to not lose your cool till 10am in the morning, after that the day will take care of itself.

This practice has helped people immensely and when you think you are going to lose it read something motivational, positive or inspirational. You will soon realize that there is more to life...
January

"Take risks: if you win, you will be happy; if you lose, you will be wise."
"Leap and the net will appear."
"We must use time wisely and forever realize that the time is always ripe to do right."
